Description

Many people will actually go for artificial trees, which are of very high quality, decorative and life-like and can only be distinguished from live trees when touched. Most of them are palm artificial trees, which have a glaring greenish color that gives a house the sense of tranquility and wellbeing. The house looks more inviting and warm with our unique artificial trees around, however there are the main reasons why people will prefer artificial trees as opposed to the live ones. They include among many;

- They are suitable in a drought stricken areas
- They need no maintenance such as pruning and watering
- They are practically pest free
- There is no need to keep a record of growing season
- At times balconies and backyards are quite shallow to grow live flowers
- Artificial flowers aren't prone to dirtying the room

This gives artificial flowers an upper hand; however this isn't to say that live plants aren't good.
